

PPE: what to wear in maternity care

	Stage of care	PPE for general hospital/ labour ward	PPE for community/ home/ clinic
no suspected COVID-19	Providing direct care NOT involving bodily fluids
	Exposure to blood, body fluids and/or medication assistance
	Early first stage of labour care
	During birth care (late first, second and third stage)
confirmed or suspected COVID-19	Providing direct care NOT involving bodily fluids
	Exposure to blood, body fluids and/or medication assistance
	Early first stage of labour care
	During birth care (late first, second and third stage)

1. FFP Respirator Masks are only required if there is an Aerosol Generating Procedure (AGP) such as performing Neonatal Resuscitation or intubation for a general anaesthetics intubation for a general anaesthetic
2. Plastic aprons can be substituted up to full fluid resistant gown based on individualised risk assessment of the care episode

hand hygiene

gloves

fluid resistant
surgical mask

eye protection /visor

plastic apron

fluid resistant
gown